Promoting petition

Gambling vote petitions due; all concerned await outcome

BY TRACI BONNEY

As the deadline approaches for the submission of dockside gambling referendum petitions, city and county officials as well as developers of a proposed gambling resort await the outcome of the issue.

While some quietly and alertly observe the rush to obtain signatures, others join in circulating the petitions.

Mayor Edward Favre said he did not sign the petition and if asked to, he would decline. "I just don't believe in petitions of any sort," he stated.

However, he added, he does encourage anyone who is interested in signing one to do so.

As for the question of dockside gambling itself, Favre said there will be both problems and benefits from gambling, but he thinks the people of the county can control them.

"If we the people — and I don't mean just we the officials — if we the people let the problems exist, they're going to exist. But if we control the problems, they won't get out of hand.

"I believe in the people. They had faith in me when they put me into office, and I have faith in them that the problems won't get out of control."

Much of the local controversy surrounding dockside gambling centers on plans by Charles Lambert to bring a casino ship to Bay Cove Harbour, which is right outside Bay St. Louis city limits, and build a resort there.

Favre said the city has been considering annexing Bay Cove Harbour for at least a year.

Lambert feels the economic returns of dockside gambling have been largely overlooked, predicting a projected $1.15 million in direct payrolls for Hancock County personnel and construction contracts totalling nearly $3 million in the first year of operation, if his plans are approved.

His projected figures show the City of Bay St. Louis (including the Municipal Separate School System) garnering $1,079,600, Waveland netting $367,360 and the county gaining $45,066 in property taxes.

SCIANNA OPPOSED

While others are watching and waiting, city council president Charles Scianna is soliciting signatures.

Scianna, who signed the referendum petition, said he is opposed to dockside gambling in the county.

Emphasizing that he spoke not as council president but as a resident of the county, he said, "I don't think that's what the community needs at this time. We're trying to bring in some economic development and start a Main Street program,

Franckiewicz — Bingo blown out of proportion

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bingo has been given a status it does not merit, according to one state legislator.

Sen. Vic Franckiewicz said Tuesday, "I think it's a sad commentary on our constitution that such a silly issue as the legality of bingo has been elevated to a constitutional level. It should be at the level of state statutes."

The legality of bingo is still in question, as it has been most of the year, as the issue is debated in the state Supreme Court.

Franckiewicz said, "From everything I've seen, I think the court will say bingo is a lottery, and that will mean calling for a constitutional amendment."

At present, the state constitution bans all lotteries. Bingo

Three New Orleans residents arrested after two-state chase

BY TRACI BONNEY

Three New Orleans residents were arrested Tuesday night in Hancock County after a two-state high-speed chase involving 18 Louisiana and Mississippi patrol units, according to Kenneth Hollins of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Kevin Henry, 24, Rhine Manuel, 25, and Carol Terrance, 32, were charged with grand larceny and aggravated assault of a police officer after allegedly stealing a white 1990 Cadillac, the personal vehicle of a New Orleans police officer, from the McIlwain Cadillac dealership's repair shop.

Waveland candidates present visions for future

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Nearly 200 people were present Tuesday, October 23 at the Hancock County Civic Center to hear platform speeches and ask questions of the four candidates for mayor of Waveland.

Ward 4 alderman and Democratic candidate Stella Frilot began the evening emphasizing better city management as a major revenue source.

Frilot began by suggesting "burn out" to be a natural consequence of a 20-year administration.

Frilot pointed out areas for improvement, citing examples given by city auditors Moore and Powell, CPA. "Receipts are often not properly signed, invoices are paid twice..."

She called for the mayor's office to notify and include authorization from the board of aldermen in all decisions surrounding "the borrowing and transfers from the various...funds."

Frilot spoke of the neccessity for a more equitable distribution of a city utility service charge saying, "...the poorest family...cannot possibly approach the minimum."

As Ward 4 alderman, she fought to defeat a $14.95 increase on the utility minimum service charge proposed by Mayor John Longo six months ago.

She pledged to make the concerns of Waveland her "only" business as a full-time mayor.

Frilot offered to take lead from other cities with successful administrative programs, proposing to work closely with the City of Bay St. Louis to forming a Bi-Municipal Planning Committee composed of businesses selected from both cities.

Grocer and Democratic candidate Russell Caldwell took a firm position on improvements to existing businesses and increase of new businesses to Waveland, citing sales taxes as that which "runs Waveland".

Caldwell proposed, "We should give all new businesses incentives to come and locate here."

"At least one year free ad valorum tax, one year free personal property tax, with six months of free utilities and no hook-up charges," said Caldwell of new businesses.

"When that regional airport comes, we have got to make sure the support facilities are in Waveland," said Caldwell.

He stated the need to attract technical, manufacturing and engineering jobs to Waveland in order to keep local young people from having to leave Waveland to search for such positions.

The younger generation and the lack of facilities and activities for them were stressed by Caldwell as measures to attract families to Waveland and to address future crime.

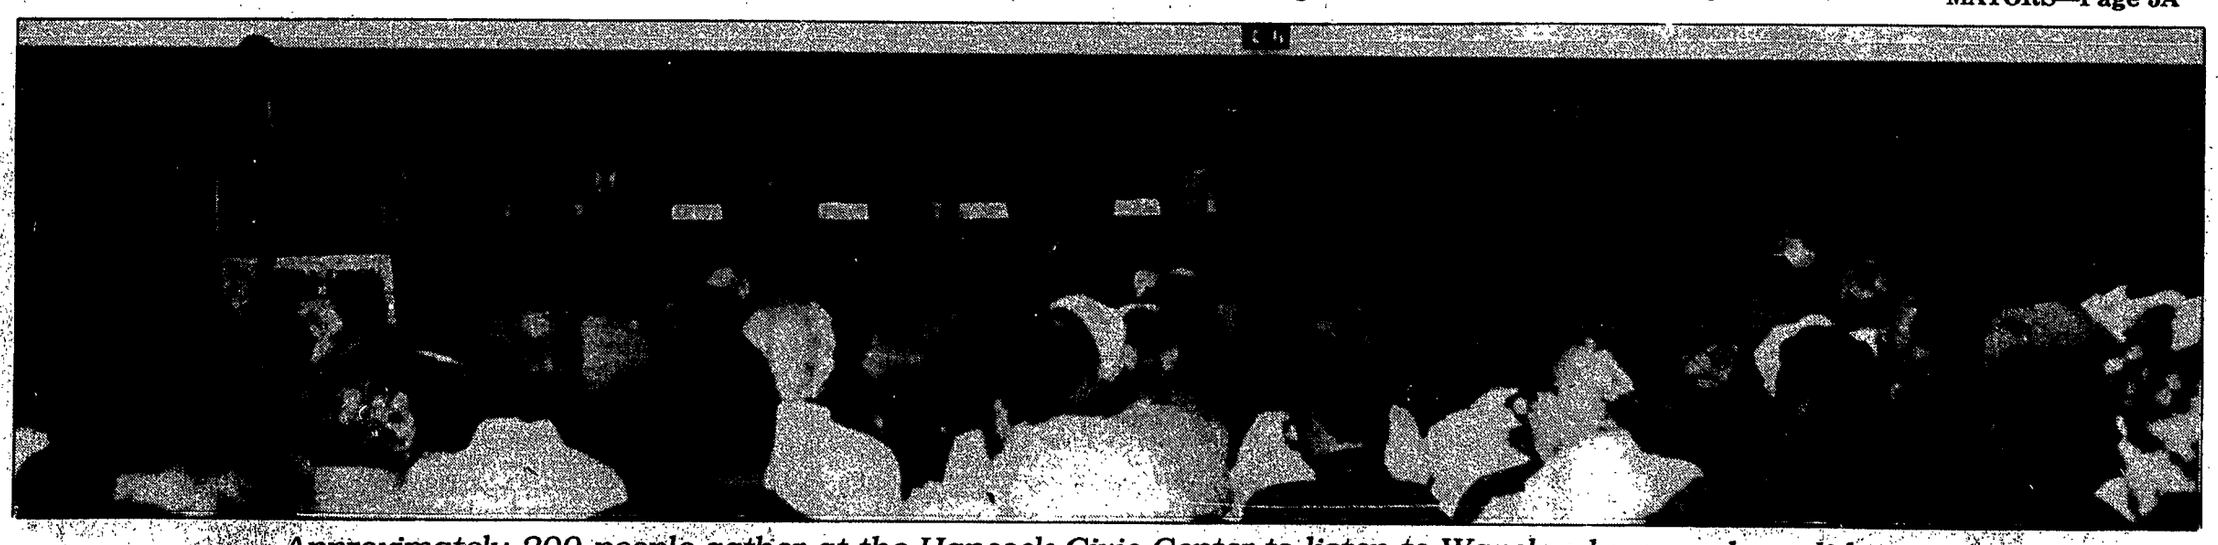

"We need to get them out of McDonald's parking lot," said Caldwell. "I don't believe they really want to hang out there, but they don't have anything else in this community to do."

As a solution to youth boredom, Caldwell suggested programs involving arts, crafts and trade skills to be taught at the civic center along with a multi-purpose city park and regulation size ball fields.

Mayor and Democratic incumbent John Longo, spoke for exactly one minute and 35 seconds.

He mentioned the Triple-A credit rating Waveland now holds and the "dozens of buildings and parks, all paid in

Happy Birthday, Son
October 27

Your room, my den, seems the perfect spot
To celebrate your birthday, to talk, and why not?
You are close in spirit, and round the room I see
Pictures of you smiling back at me.
Although it's your day—haven't bought a thing.
What on earth compares to hearing angels sing?
Each morn' I greet you—good morning, Son.
Every night ends with—well, another day done.
Am I counting days? Which way I don't know.
Is it those since you left or ones I've to go?
If I can live life as you did to the end,
One day you and God will say, welcome home, friend.
It doesn't get easier as the years go by.
Healing takes time and, yes, I still cry.
God knows I miss you and wish you were here,
Get a hug, hear you laugh, share your birthday cheer.
To tell you again, as I did years ago,
Alan, my son, I love you so.
Happy Birthday, Son

Grandpa And I

I was grandpa's heart. I was grandpa's joy. I was grandpa's little baby boy.

Grandpa was my sunshine, which brightened up each dark day.

Grandpa knows that in my heart are memories that will never fade away.

Grandpa and Grandma used to visit me when I lived in the Bay.

When they had to go, I would beg and cry, "Grandpa, please, please stay."

They would leave without me, so I would stand near the road and cry.

They would come back to get me, then my tears would suddenly dry.

Years later we moved near grandpa's house, we lived just across the street.

Wow! I thought, living near my grandparents must really be neat.

I was grandpa's shadow that followed him everywhere.

Grandpa would wrap his arms around me to show me that he could care.

Grandpa is still my friend, because he gave me a helping hand.

I asked grandpa where did life go, but I guess I was too young to understand.

I got so close to grandpa, but then he had to die.

When they closed his coffin, I sadly waved good-bye.

LOOKING AT FACTS INSTEAD OF PROMISES CONCERNING DOCKSIDE CASINO GAMBLING

THE FACTS CONCERNING CASINOS AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Atlantic City casinos are now being recognized for what they are: a profitable source of income for the operators, a disaster for the residents.

MORE JOBS?

The total number of people in Atlantic City who are unemployed remains about the same. (The Atlantic City Gamble, p. 11)

Jobs created by casinos come at the expense of jobs lost to regular businesses such as clothing, furniture, food and financial institutions. (Bureau of Business and Economic Research, Paper No. 86-2)

LESS EXPENSIVE GOVERNMENT SERVICES?

The poor people who had danced in the streets the night gambling was legalized were soon bemoaning their fate, as property taxes and water, sewer, and utility bills soared...("Parade," Why Casino Gambling Is A Bad Bet by Ovid Demaris, author of "The Boardwalk Jungle")

EXISTING BUSINESSES WILL INCREASE SALES AND PROFITS?

"You don't see any spillover. The casinos are walled-off universes. In terms of revitalizing the city, it's a disaster. The visitor who passes beyond the thin layer of tinsel trappings along the Boardwalk enters a wasteland." (From a study by the Twentieth Century Fund concerning Atlantic City)

Casino gambling does not create wealth; it simply concentrates and re-allocates it. Money not spent at the casinos will be spent elsewhere. Since about half of Atlantic City's customers come from a 50-mile radius, the casinos re-allocate millions of dollars into Atlantic City casinos that otherwise would have been spent in normal consumer-related businesses. (Bureau of Business and Economic Research, Paper No. 86-2)

WILL NEW BUSINESSES LOCATE IN HANCOCK COUNTY?

Between 1978 and 1985, "...nearly 90 percent of the city's businesses had vanished, and its population had shrunk from 45,000 to 37,000." "Real estate values and property tax assessments have skyrocketed, driving out most of the small businessmen who had dreamed of sharing in the gambling bonanza." (Concerning Atlantic City in "Parade," Why Casino Gambling Is a Bad Bet by Ovid Demaris, author of "The Boardwalk Jungle)

CASINOS AND CRIME: THE FACTS

Nevada, with legalized gambling for over 50 years, has consistently ranked first in the nation in per capita crime. From 1976 to 1977, before casino gambling, Atlantic City's crime index actually decreased 6 percent. From 1977 through 1980, however, Atlantic City's reported crimes jumped 171 percent (this includes the following offenses: murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary and motor vehicle theft). From "Report of Attorney General Robert Abrams in Opposition to Legalized Casino Gambling in New York State.")

"Devastating" is how one local police official characterizes the social impact on Atlantic City concerning the deluge of muggings, purse snatchings, car thefts, crimes of trickery, dope peddling, and prostitution stimulated by the introduction of casinos. (From "Report Of Massachusett's Legislative Research Bureau")

Elderly residents have become prime targets for criminal attacks on the streets and in their homes. They live in fear of crime, especially burglaries and personal assaults. ) From "Report of Stockton State College" (1981) on problems of Atlantic city's elderly population.)

Atlantic City's Police Department was faced with a 2,000 percent increase in demand for its services within four years of legalizing casinos. (Abrams Report)

The cost of local law enforcement in Atlantic City increased dramatically. From a public safety budget of $5.7 million in 1977, the budget request was more than doubled for 1981 to $14.2 million. (Abrams Report)

"The actual Atlantic City and Nevada Experiences have conclusively demonstrated to me that legalized casino gambling, by its very nature, creates an environment in which crimes of all types will flourish." (A quote from Robert Abrams, a former Attorney General for the state of New York)

TOURISM: THE FACTS

"If we really want to attract more tourists to this state, we should invest our money and our imagination in providing better entertainment, better facilities, a better climate for recreation and relaxation, and better hospitality. Such investment would represent a responsible commitment... The bottom line in the struggle against casino gambling is our vision of ourselves and our future. What kind of community and state do we want to live in? ...to raise our children in? God has provided us with one of the most bountiful and beautiful lands on the face of the earth. We do not need to sell this state cheaply. We have taken great strides in preserving our national environment. We should be as vigilant and vigorous in improving and preserving our cultural and social environment. There are many things we yet may need to add, but casino gambling is not one of them."
(A quote from former Florida governor Reubin O'D. Askew in "The Legislative Report" from the Institute for Social Studies, 1976, p. 11)

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The game of the year for the Tigers of Bay High will be on Friday night when they play host to the Hawks of Hancock High.

The young Tigers, sporting a 1-7 record, have a slim chance against the 7-1 Hawks. Hancock should really be smarting after their first loss of the season last week at the hands of Lawrence County.

The young 3-A rated Tigers will have to play well above themselves to stay even close to the 4-A Hawks.

I know Tiger coach Rocky Gaudin, a longtime assistant to Irvin Favre at Hancock, will have Bay High's squad as ready as he can for the game.

The state-rated Hawks, winners of their district title early in the season, have played very exciting games and should bring along a lot of fan support for the Tiger encounter.

I am hoping the Tiger fans, too, will show for this very important game for Coach Gaudin.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws, who clinched a play-off berth last week, will play host to Pearl River Central Friday.

Last week PRC lost to Pass Christian in a very close game, so the Rocks better not take them too lightly.

Stanislaus, like Hancock, has also played very competitive football this season.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will celebrate homecoming this week when they host Vancleave's Bulldogs.

The Pirates should not take Vancleave serious, as they have not been in the win column too often.

This has been one of the best Pirate teams in several years, and they would like to continue to win.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 7:30 a.m. at the Hancock County High School next to the Stennis Airpark.

Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph is the featured speaker, and a tour of the new facilities will also be included.

This will be a good time for folks to check over the impressive new county school facility.

The Hancock County School District is sponsoring the Morning Edition.

I hope to see you tomorrow morning at the chamber's Morning Edition at Hancock High School.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Japan-U.S. Senate summer scholarships available

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran is encouraging Mississippi high school students to compete for Japan-U.S. Senate Student Exchange scholarships.

Two students from each state will be selected to travel to Japan and gain first-hand knowledge of the country and its people.

The scholarships, which offer students a chance to live for six weeks during the summer with a Japanese host family, are a gift to the American people from the government of Japan. They are administered by Youth for Understanding International Exchange, one of the oldest and largest nonprofit intercultural exchange organizations in the world.

In 1991, for the tenth year, two high school juniors from each state will be awarded the Japan-U.S. Senate scholarships. Every school may nominate one student for the competition.

Before they travel to Japan, the scholarship recipients will attend a four-day orientation program on the West Coast of the United States. When they arrive in Tokyo, the students will visit several top government officials before they depart to join their host families in different areas of the country.

Students who wish to be considered for the Japan-U.S. Senate scholarships should contact their principals or guidance offices, who have been mailed application materials. Semi-finalists will be selected on the basis of their written applications, and finalists will be chosen by state selection committees in February or March 1991. Applications must be postmarked by Nov. 3.

For more information about the Japan-U.S. Senate scholarships, call Scholarship Administration at 1-800-424-3691.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Do your part to help keep Bay St. Louis clean

Dear Editor:

It has not gone unnoticed that Bay St. Louis taxes have not been raised and that our utility rates have been lowered, thanks to the efforts of our mayor, city council and staff.

They could give a few lessons to our national leaders on "how to tighten the belt."

Also, congratulations to our city fathers for the renewed city clean-up efforts, including ditches, right-of-ways, highway, vacant lots, etc.

Project Pride 1990 brings back encouraging memories of our 1970 Project Pride that did so much to lift our spirits after Hurricane Camille.

We, as citizens, must do our parts by "pitching in" to maintain the village atmosphere of the City of Bay St. Louis that we all love.

Sincerely,
Nell Frisbie

Dear Editor:

'Pray for me, I travel 603' bumper stickers on 603 are gone, but accidents continue.

Granted, that road is not as easy to drive as I-10, but it's certainly wide enough and kept in smooth condition.

The real danger are the drivers. They exceed speed limits, pass when it's not safe, drive too fast in rain or fog and DUI. What to do?

Perhaps a combined effort by our police issuing tickets—the proceeds funding a driving course offenders must attend, or make them serve a number of hours at the emergency room of Hancock Medical Center.

Auto accidents not only cause pain, suffering and death, they cause all of us to pay higher and higher insurance premiums. There is an urgent need to awaken the driving public to safe driving practices by every possible means.

Be a safe driver—not a statistic.

Regards,
Royce P. Kaupp

Baptists oppose gambling; convene in Las Vegas

To the Editor:

Noting that the Rev. Nathan Barber has become quite active in his opposition to dockside gambling in Bay St. Louis, I wonder if he was equally as motivated to discourage his Southern Baptist colleagues from bringing their (reported) several-thousand-member convention to Las Vegas recently.

Certainly that didn't do anything to discourage the gambling industry... And, it didn't help our economy.

Sincerely,
Donald K. Saucier

Xavier basketball players also study while playing

Dear Editor:

The Bay St. Louis community was treated to exciting, fast paced, pumpin',thumpin', slammin', jammin' college basketball by Xavier University on Saturday, Oct. 20. However, more important than the game itself, all were treated to a wonderful show of fellowship.

Everyone shared a spirit of volunteerism that transcended all lines of race, color, sex and religion. For instance, the Bay St. Louis School Board readily approved the use of the Tiger Dome for this event.

The community donated the goodies for the concession stand, and Xavier played the game.

When our children saw the players get off their chartered bus with sports equipment and school books, that sent a very powerful message.The message: academics and athletics can coexist. It was refreshing to see the students open their books on Saturday, oblivious to all of the hoopla around them.

The sports fans, basically our high and junior high school children were shown that they too can and must go on to higher education. They were exposed to high academic achievers who happen to play sports; but their goals and aspirations as college students will far exceed their days in athletics.

These students will go on to become doctors, lawyers, engineers, educators, and corporate executives.

The subtle message that rang out loud and clear in our community was that all of the students were African-American. They were saying to our children, "you too can go on to college, play sports, graduate and begin your own professional careers."

Everything that happened on Saturday was positive and upbeat. The NAACP volunteers and members, prepared and served a scrumptious meal to the teams, coaches and administrators. Afterwards, the players thanked the NAACP for its hospitality and prepared to return to New Orleans.

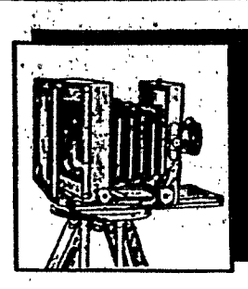

However, it was soon realized that the chartered bus failed to return and gather the students. They were standing in front of Bay Senior High at 10:30 that night.

Again, the community sprang into action. St. Stanislaus administrators were contacted and told that a brother school was in need of assistance.

They readily agreed to transport the students back to their university. It was a pleasure to see our community, adults from two local school systems come together, form a coalition and ensure the safe return of our guests.

On behalf of the Hancock County NAACP and as its president, I extend my sincere and hardy appreciation to Xavier, our local school staffs, our volunteers and the supporters for sharing a tremendously positive experience that will continue to demonstrate community kinship, hospitality and warmth for all who wish to visit our fair city of Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

—It's picking up, but it's still got a long way to go! That was the report Wednesday on the United Fund drive now in its third week. A telephone check of various division leaders listed about $3,300 raised during the week and the figure is expected to be somewhat brighter for the formal meeting at 7:45 p.m. today at Our Lady of the Gulf Parish Hall. Plus the $1,219 reported last week, the total is a little closer to the $10,710 goal for the 1965 campaign, according to E.J. Arceneaux, general chairman, W. Ray Gordon said.

—The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight was called off, instead of pulled off. The world now knows what Robert Fitzsimmons is. As long as there was a chance of having the fight come off at Hot Spring he would not go near the place, muttering something about law, but now that the fight is declared off, both by the state and club, the cowardly sneak rushes forward and cries fight; its a wonder the pups don't bark at him.

—Next Tuesday night some of the most influential men of Bay St. Louis will meet at the drug store of E.C. Gardebled for the purpose of reorganizing the present fire company. The Echo has always advocated the need of a good fire department and other necessities by which the demon of fire may be successfully coped with. A good fire company is the first thing needed, and if we are to judge the new company by the men that have interested themselves in it, we can truthfully say Bay will have a first class company. It behooves every progressive man to be present at the meeting.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

The loss of an old friend

Mississippi lost an old friend a few days ago, a friend who had been singing Mississippi's praises for more than a quarter century. And, his song of praise about Mississippi was heard by national audiences.

Douglas Edwards, one of the CBS radio and television pioneers, died in Sarasota, Fla. after retiring several years ago from this New York-based media career.

Mr. Edwards was a son of the South with Mississippi roots. His mother was a native Mississippian, and he still had a sprinkling of Mississippi kinfolks.

Douglas Edwards was in Mississippi 20 years ago, to address an annual membership meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council. In that meeting he talked about Mississippi's image.

"There is an image of Mississippi that is slowly emerging," he told his audience of Mississippi business leaders.

"The image is of a state that is waking up, looking forward, moving forward, as a good place to work and live."

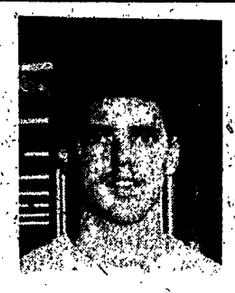

Then he cited examples of media accounts of positive news items flowing out of Mississippi.

Mr. Edwards kept in touch. He had been back in Mississippi, and he had communicated on a rather regular basis with Mississippians he had met on those visits.

It's nice to know Mississippi does, indeed, have friends in high places.

Senior Citizens director discusses recent budget cuts, program needs

Special to the Echo
BY EVE MCDONALD

Thank you for caring about our Senior Citizens programs. We heard from so many of you who deplored the budget cuts our Senior Citizens Center was given.

The board of directors feels you deserve to know how we are doing, what we have cut and how you can help.

Before cutting anything or anyone else, the board voted to eliminate the $3 lunch that was provided them at our monthly board meeting. (This was their only compensation.)

At my suggestion, my time and salary was cut 20 percent.

The Council on Aging has cut delivery of hot meals to four days a week, with a cold meal sent with the Thursday hot meal to our 35 clients.

This cuts down on the cost of delivery, but as the meal is prepackaged, the cost went up 22 cents per meal.

With the rise in minimum wage, some of our salaries had to go up (which was needed badly).

PROGRAMS WE PROVIDE

—35 meals-on-wheels per day (9,135)

—25 meals, 4 days a week (5,000)

—Transportation from all areas of the county

—Classes daily at the center

—Homemaker service to homebound

—Ombudsman who relates to nursing home patients

—Legal assistance (limited)

—Focal point for seniors to come to for any help or information concerning all kinds of problems

—Senior Aides (jobs for low-income seniors in our program)

INCOME

$28,752, Hancock County Board of Supervisors; $26,000, transporation; $12,000+, Bay St. Louis (buidling, utilities, maintenance); $4,000, United Way and $2,500, Waveland.

Other income includes donations from senior citizens; money earned at fairs and bazaars and from sale of white elephant items and crafts.

HELP NEEDED

Please express your appreciation to those who support our programs, and ask your politicians to continue their support or to raise their support level.

We are saving and selling aluminum cans and paper. If you have any, please drop it off at the center. Please put the newspaper in a brown paper bag or tie it up. Also, please rinse out the cans.

Come to our fair Nov. 2 and 3. Call 467-9292 for information.

Adopt a senior citizen who is on meals-on-wheels and take him a hot meal on Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

Save large brown paper grocery bags for us for our meals-on-wheels folks.

Thanks for what you have done in the past, and for what you will do in the future. Who knows when it will be us in need.

cash."

Longo reminded the audience that Waveland, once rated in the bottom of 300 Mississippi cities, is now 49th in the state.

The imcumbent mayor spoke of the City of Waveland as a finacially sound town and credited the citizens for his successes.

Exxon station owner and Republican candidate John Mason began with his intent to make the mayor's office into a full-time position and stressed the need to be available and involved with citizen needs.

Mason compared the role of service station manager as "to listen and find the most effective means to solve the problem" as that as with mayor, pledging to be available at regular days and times.

Mason suggested the establishment of "a mayor's advisory task force...to seek out citizen involvement and insure the voice of the people of Waveland is properly represented."

Tourism promotion was equated to economic and business growth.

Mason discussed the need for the development of a recycling program to address future concerns and city beautification. Color coded trash containers and tax reduction incentives were suggested as beginning measures of action.

Increase in neighborhood police patrols and innovative crime stopping measures were stated by Mason to be necessary with Waveland's seasonal changes in population.

Mason called for a reduction in utility rates. He compared Waveland's low millage rates (taxes) to its high utility rates, suggesting a disadvantage in that millage is tax deductable, whereas utilities are not.

The forum was sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. Randy Castello, president, was moderator.

Henderson named HMC administrator

DON HENDERSON

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Don Henderson will assume the position of hospital administrator of Hancock Medical Center.

The announcement was made by the board of trustees. Henderson replaces Phil Wolfe, who resigned to become administrator of Sierra Vista Regional Medical Center in San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Henderson, 33, is a graduate of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. and earned a master's degree in health care administration from George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

He currently serves as assistant administrator of Fairview Park Hospital in Dublin, Ga.

His civic involvement includes membership in Kiwanis Club and serving on the board of directors of the local United Way, American Red Cross and Hospice organizations.

He is an elder at Henry Memorial Presbyterian Church and is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Henderson, his wife, Dinah, and five-month-old daughter will relocate to Diamondhead in the near future. He will assume the post at Hancock Medical on November 5.

"We are anxious to move to the area," said Henderson, who noted being able to enjoy a small town atmosphere with access to a larger metropolitan area.

"I found the people to be so warm and friendly.

"The hospital is a fine facility with state-of-the-art equipment," he said.

KILLING TIME

"Sinning" by omission

Have you ever eaten a cheeseless pizza?

Thanks to one of my dad's "sins" by omission, I did one time. It wasn't good.

"Sins" by omission can have a variety of results; usually they make someone or something angry with you.

For instance, when you use the computer I'm using to type this, if you omit a command one of several things may happen. The computer might print the entire thing in headline or caption type; it might print single columns on two or three pages instead of printing the entire story on one page; it might overlap columns; or it might "scream" at you (sort of like your alarm clock, mother or spouse does when you don't want to get up) and refuse to print anything.

In the worst possible case, the entire system may crash and "eat" everything you ever stored in it.

Fortunately, we haven't experienced a full-fledged system crash since I started in March.

More often, we end up with things I like to put in the "Foul-ups, bleeps and blunders" file I keep in my desk, things like large-print articles or stories printed entirely in bold type or italics.

Any one of these goofs can occur if you merely forget to press a key or two.

Other such "sins" that come to mind include culinary disasters that could have been averted with a little concentration. My dad's pizza is the most infamous of those in my life (so far). He was distracted by my brother and forgot the mozzarella.

Let's face it, who would want to eat cookies with no vanilla extract or bread without yeast (unless you're at Communion or Passover), or drink sugarless Kool-Aid?

"Sins" by omission can deprive you of your entertainment (the "boom box" you forgot to get fresh batteries for), your transportation (the car you neglected to put gas in before you left on that five-hour trip) or your purpose for being somewhere (the interview where you forgot to take your camera or notebook).

They can also render an effort pointless. After all, what do you do with a press release that tells the date and purpose of an event, but doesn't tell the time or location?

Of course, there are also the counterparts to this particular phenomenon: "sinning" by overcompensation and "sinning" through ignorance.

Can you imagine doubling an ingredient in a recipe? A coworker or mine did it once, and one two-layer cake turned into six one-layer cakes.

I do that all the time, although not to such a degree. Three pancakes very often multiply into five in my kitchen.

"Sinning" by overcompensation generally results in too much of something, but that's okay. That's what leftovers are for.

On the other hand, "sinning" through ignorance can result in the loss of something, like your credibility or dignity. This generally happens through lack of knowledge of the culture, situation or circumstances you are about to enter.

In one of the most notorious goofs in recent advertising history, a certain car maker decided to sell one of its most popular small cars south of the border. The problem was that these folks neglected to check into the possible meaning of the vehicle's name in Spanish.

Tell me, would you buy a car whose name, in your native language, means "It doesn't go"?

Layne's serves it up 'the Southern way'

Delicious "Down Home" Southern food, especially some of the best Southern Fried Chicken which this self-appointed connoisseur (if you will) of fried chicken, that traditional star of Southern tables, has ever eaten—that's what you'll find at Layne's Krispy Chicken on Highway 90 in Waveland (319 Highway 90, to be exact).

There's also barbecue chicken and stewed or broiled chicken, as well as fried fish, along with a delicious selection of fresh vegetables offered each day at Layne's Chicken and Vegetable Buffet, along with some of the tastiest homemade yeast rolls you could wish.

It's an All-You-Can-Eat Buffet, at a modest price, boasting an array of fresh, tasty vegetable items, ranging from those Southern special favorites, fried okra and turnip greens and black-eye peas and rice, to mashed potatoes and gravy, along with coleslaw and carrot salad and macaroni salad, for example!

Other tasty offerings are fried chicken livers and chicken gizzards, along with corn and green beans as well. And, let me not forget that new addition, fried dill pickles!

Is there anyone who doesn't like Southern Fried Chicken? I suppose there must be, but I can't imagine why! In fact, I was enjoying my fried chicken wings so much the other day at the luncheon buffet that I barely stopped nibbling long enough to tell our host and proprietor, Tony (Anthony Layne) Smith, how much I liked the chicken! But, actions were telling better than any phrases.

Nor did I have to tell his dad, Jerry Smith, Southern chef par excellence, who rules the cooking pots. It was Jerry who started Jerry's Krispy Chicken restaurant in Hattiesburg some years ago.

And when Jerry later opened Jerry's Krispy Chicken on Highway 90 in Long Beach some 15 years ago, he added, along with the chicken, a vegetable bar—the first in the area to do so, he reminisced. I wonder just how much of Jerry's specially good chicken I've consumed over the years! And those homemade rolls and all the rest!

If you're among those who shun fried chicken as "greasy," you should try the chicken at Layne's. It will change your mind and delight your plate with its crisp crust which all but snaps when you touch it, encasing the tender, moist meat of the chicken. Wings are my favorite pieces, so please don't grab 'em all if you're there at the same time as I am!

There's a special saving price for the children's buffet, for youngsters three to seven, and take-outs are available, in addition to the buffet bar.

Layne's is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (buffet bar closes at 9 p.m.) seven days a week; and a breakfast buffet is slated to be added in the near future, with hours from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m., also seven days a week.

If you're like me, once you try it, Layne's Krispy Chicken will become one of your favorite places for good Southern cooking at down-to-earth prices. In addition to the many buffet selections, Layne's also offers fried chicken pieces of your choice, as well as chicken dinners of varying sizes to suit your family size.

The chicken strips are quite tasty, tender strips of breast meat. Catering is also available for informal parties of any size, Tony told me and my luncheon companion, as we chatted away, as dedicated eaters and cooks will do!

With good food in an informal, unpretentious atmosphere, Layne's is a sort of neighborhood "family eating place"—although many of its patrons come from miles away to enjoy the food tasty offerings and the modest prices, along with the Smiths' hospitality.

There's always been a variety of fresh vegetables on Southern dinner tables through the years, along with home-baked breads and rolls. In fact, there used to be a saying to the effect that "if your host or hostess offer you cold bread, go home, for that means that you're not welcome!" Well, you're welcome at Layne's, for they keep those wonderful hot breads coming to the buffet!

Speaking of vegetables, among my favorites at Layne's are the fresh and tasty turnip greens (and there are bottles of pepper sauce—peppers in vinegar—to sprinkle over those greens, true Southland style!)

If you regard turnip and other down-home greens and such as too, too ordinary a vegetable for you, unlike those of us who gobble them up with gusto, you might be interested to learn that these wholesome Southern touches are enjoying a vogue over the nation, even showing up in some rather posh restaurants, such as The Russian Tea Room in New York City!

"The Russian Tea Room in New York City now serves Chicken Paillard on a 'mess' of collard greens for lunch," reports Manhattan-based food and restaurant consultant Clark Wolf. (I think that means "grilled chicken" but I'm not sure, and I have misplaced my French-English dictionary. So, I think that I'll top my greens with a broiled or stewed chicken breast next time I go to Layne's. It's bound to be good!

And I'll give it that Southern tang of peppers-in-vinegar sprinkled atop, with perhaps a bit of Layne's good gravy.

Or, perhaps I'll—Heavens, I've just come home from Layne's bountiful buffet, and I'm already planning the next visit there!

Bluebird trail

Diamondhead residents provide 'cheep' housing for the needy

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Along Airport Drive in Diamondhead, a dozen new houses stand in anticipation of future occupants.

Each house stands apart by several hundred feet and independent of the surrounding woodlands.

The houses face the trimmed grasses of the median and drive edge.

Once a week, Jean Eakin passes by and gently checks to see if anyone is home.

If someone is there, Eakin tiptoes away and jots down what she has seen.

If the home has been vacated, Eakin removes the leftover bedding and washes it clean for the next occupants.

No bigger than a breadbox, each house belongs to the newly established bluebird trail.

Eakin is one of 17 Diamondhead Garden Club women who have taken on an interest in helping provide habitats for the endangered bluebird.

The bluebird is a cavity dweller, explained Eakin. They nest in knot holes.

They live on the edge of woodlands where they can seek shelter and feed in the open fields.

"One of our goals is to get the golfers interested in placing bluebird houses around the courses at Diamondhead. They love the freshly mowed lawns," said Eakin.

"Bluebirds are wonderful for flower gardens," added Eakin. "They eat the caterpillars."

Bluebirds are insect and fruit eaters. In winter, the ladies provide the birds with water-soaked raisins, cut in two, and a mixture of lard and corn meal. The feeders are enclosed by plexiglass, each with a small opening to discourage entrance by others.

The houses are also designed to deter admittance from predators. It is a deep house, to prevent long paws from reaching the nest and the opening is no more than 1½ inches in diameter, to prevent larger birds from visiting.

The birdwatchers admitted to the tremendous pleasure they experienced when watching a pair gather the exclusive pine straw nest or provide for the fledglings.

Rosemary Bacigalupi said, "I've watched the female teaching the little ones to build a nest."

"They represent family," elaborated Eakin. "They apartment hunt in December and January, by Valentine's Day they have selected a box and by Easter they have built their first nest."

Eakin expressed a personal philosophy represented in her club's activities saying, "I see our role to bring the joy of the bluebird to the past, the present and the future.

"We gave a bluebird house to the Hotel Reed Nursing Home, here we touch the past. Our group is the present and recently we invited the children from Diamondhead Academy around the trail, touching the future."

Of the 12 boxes the ladies monitored this year, they reported two bluebird families.

> "They represent family. They apartment hunt in December and January, by Valentine's Day they have selected a box and by Easter they have built their first nest." — Jean Eakin

One woman reported no success with her houses and was obviously disappointed, but Eakin reminded her to be patient for it may take a year or more before a family takes up residency.

Leaving the trail, Eakin saw a pair playing in the pines, the blue color fluttering between greens and browns. "Look," said Eakin, "maybe they will stay."

Out of Africa

Bay St. Louis photographer Thomas H. "Doc" Toups displays some "Exposures in the Dark" in an exhibit at the Pass Christian Public Library of photographs Toups took during an extended stay in Africa.

Along with color and black-and-white photos that show a range of tone and mood, the display also includes several drawings Toups created in the pointilist style and one small painting. The drawings, which require the artist to construct the picture one small dot at a time, are time-consuming and demanding to execute. The result is something that resembles a drawn photograph.

Toups has worked as a photojournalist since the early 1980s, when he sold his first photo/article package to Gung Ho magazine, a publication for the "international military man," while working in security for an African company.

"Exposures in the Dark," which displays the versatility of the photographer and the diversity of his subject matter, will hang in the library conference room through the month of October.

and I don't think dockside gambling fits into what we're trying to do."

Scianna pointed out that the county, along with western Harrison County, has "several things going for us: the companies at the industrial park, Dupont, NASA.

"It's not as though we're desperate and this is the only thing we can do to bring dollars into the economy."

Scianna added that he hopes the issue, no matter which way it is settled, will not serve to divide the residents of the county.

"I hope once it's voted on, everyone will abide by the rule of the majority and get on with life."

PETITION UNNECESSARY

With dockside gambling already legal within the county, Lambert claims confusion is being registered by many persons presented with the prospect of signing a petition.

Lambert said he has heard from several persons who were upset to find out they were not casting a vote in favor of gambling, but for the possibility of ruling it out.

"The petition was misrepresented," he said. "Dockside gambling is already legal now, and the county could save several thousand dollars by not bringing it to a vote."

Bingo

opponents, the most outspoken of whom at the state level is attorney general Mike Moore, base their arguments against the game on this ban.

Meanwhile, bingo proponents say the game is not a lottery, since it calls for the player's presence to win, the game lasts a definite period of time, and the players interact with one another. None of these factors is true in the case of a lottery.

Franckiewicz said a constitutional amendment must first be passed by both houses of the Legislature, then must go to the people for a vote. "Despite the Senate's anti-lottery stand, a stand which I do not share, the Senate has passed several resolutions calling for a constitutional amendment on lotteries, only to have them killed in the House," Franckiewicz commented.

He said the current hearings about bingo should not affect other gambling issues in the state, such as dockside gambling, because the case in court deals specifically with bingo.

He did add, however, that he does not expect the case to come out of court before November or December.

Gulf Coast air races attract national attention

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is attracting national attention as work continues in preparation for the 1990 Great Gulf Coast Air Races and Air Show.

The Miller Brewing Company of Milwaukee, Wisc. is joining with Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Gulfport as major sponsors of the 1990 Air Races and Air Show which will be held at Stennis International Airport on Nov. 3 and 4.

Public reaction to last year's air races was enthusiastic in spite of dreary weather that hurt attendance. This interest, and the possibility of future national TV coverage of the event has aroused the interest of both local and national companies.

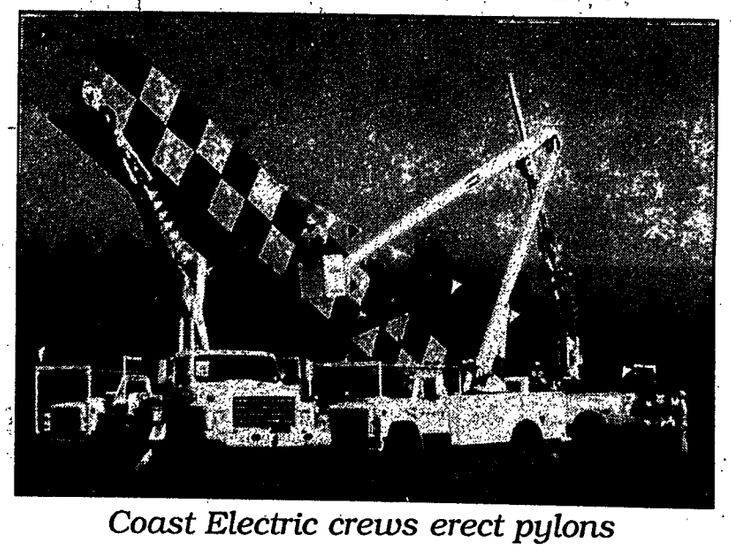

Drew Allen, president of Allen Beverages, area distributors of Pepsi products, is a strong supporter of aviation and the air races. Allen stated, "We would like to help make the Great Gulf Coast Air Races as well known as the Reno National Air Races."

Air races around towering pylons marking off the semi-oval race course will begin at noon on both Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 3 and 4. Stennis Airport is located one mile north of Interstate 10 at Hwy. 603 exit.

The traditional air show and static display of military, experimental, homebuilt and antique aircraft will also be held. The air races and air show will feature pilots from South Mississippi, Southeast Louisiana, and several adjoining states.

The 1990 event will mark the 12th year for the Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479's air show, and the second year for the Gulf Coast Air Race Association's joint participation.

The aviation weekend is a popular annual family outing with a variety of food booths, helicopter and airplane rides, World War II aircraft and continuous entertainment.

Chase

Department dispatched units to pursue the vehicle. St. Tammany Parish units joined in and the law officers chased the car into Mississippi on Interstate 10, Hollins said.

Two miles into Mississippi, state highway patrol units responded to the call and added their numbers to the pursuit. During the course of the chase, in which speeds of 115 to 120 miles an hour were reached, the suspects fired at a New Orleans police unit.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies Duron Cuevas, Brian Cuevas and George Burleson were dispatched to I-10 around 8:30 p.m., where they set up a roadblock at the 13-mile marker, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Matt Karl.

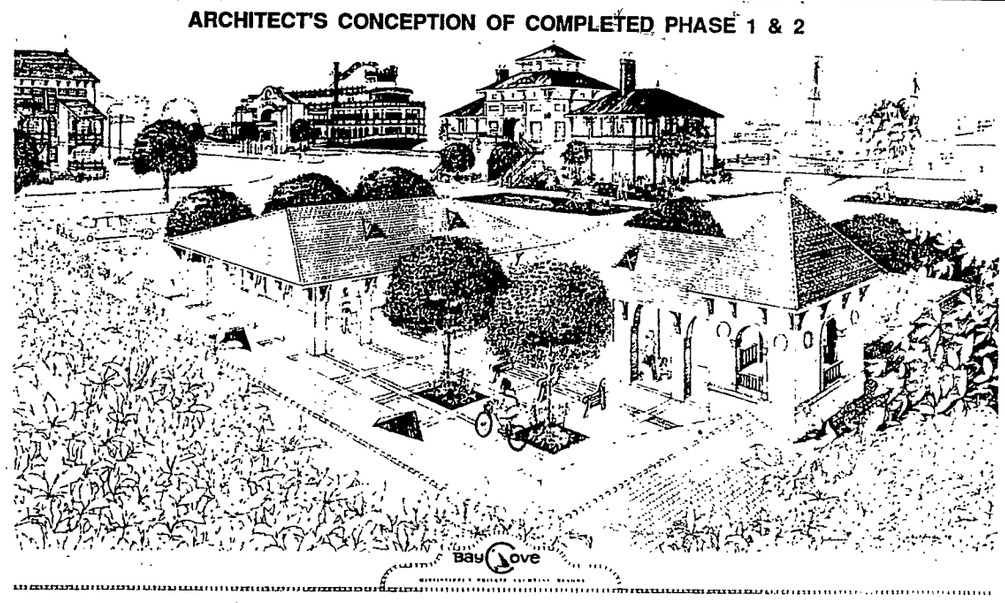

As the suspects passed the roadblock, Hollins said, they fired once at the Hancock officers, who returned the shot.

A rear tire of the Cadillac blew out on top of the Jourdan River bridge, Hollins continued, and the car was stopped at the foot of the bridge. He said the blowout was not caused by a bullet.

The suspects are currently in the Hancock County jail, Hollins said.

Tigers vs. Hawks

Bay High plans extra effort Friday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay High School will be facing Hancock High Friday night in their second to last game of the season.

"We will mainly work hard to stop what they do best," said Tiger coach Rocky Gaudin.

"The morale is good," stated Gaudin. "We are not accepting defeat."

Gaudin said, "The offensive team is doing a good job of throwing the ball, but the defense is not blocking as they should. They are not getting after the people."

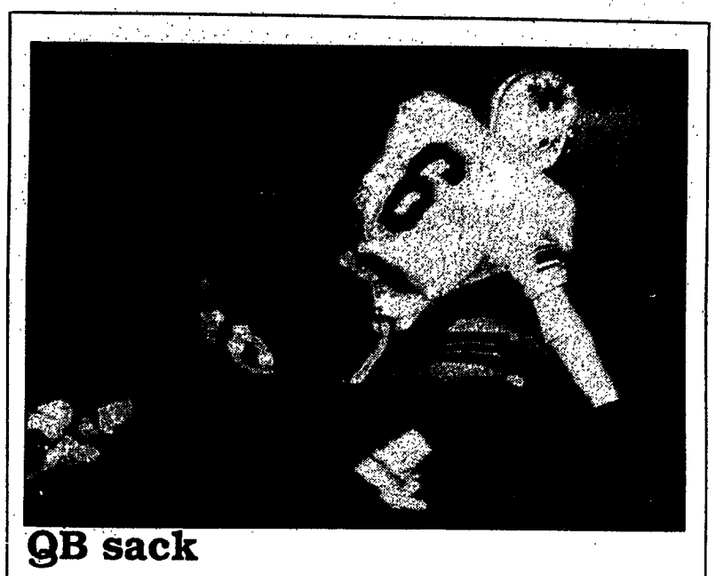

In reference to the Hawks, Gaudin said, "There are no weak points. Their offense is strong. They are kicking as solid as you can get. And they are an experienced team."

Gaudin spoke of the Tigers, saying they have shown inprovements and the team understands it takes time.

"The boys will do their best," added Gaudin.

"We will close out this year knowing that some really good

Hawks look for tough game game vs. Bay

Special to the Echo
By Belinda Liles

Tomorrow night the Hancock High School Hawks will travel to Bay St. Louis to take on their cross-county rival, the Bay High Tigers.

In this game, you can throw away the records for both teams, as the bragging rights for next year are at stake.

Hancock is coming off their first loss of the season, delivered at the hands of the Wayne County War Eagles. Asked if the loss would affect Friday's game, coach Irvin Favre said, "I don't think so. Wayne County was a very physical game. They just got the right breaks and that beat us. Physically, our boys are ready."

"The Bay always plays us hard at home. We know they have been struggling lately, but they will be up for us," he said.

The game should prove to be interesting, as both offenses and defenses are very similar, Favre noted. "This is because of the amount of time the two coaching staffs spent working

Pass hosts Vancleave in homecoming game

Special to the Echo
BY PATRICK MCKEE

The Pass Christian Pirates will host Vancleave Friday night at 7:30. It will be homecoming night for the Pirates, and they are anxious to put another number into the win column.

Another reason Pass Christian is eager to win is that it is a district game. They are presently 1-2 in district games for the season, and 5-3 overall.

"We are going to have to do our homework," said Pirate head coach Joseph Brown. "They look pretty big on film."

Brown also noted that Vancleave appeared to be similar in strength to Pearl River Central. "They throw the ball well. They have a good running game, as well as a decent passing game," he said.

Brown was pleased to hear that The Sun Herald had listed Pass Christian in the top six Coast offensive teams and the top six Coast defensive teams. On offense, the Pirates have accumulated 161 points, and defensively, they have given up only 83 points.

"I am very excited to hear about that," he said. "It has been a while since we have had a winning season."

Brown mentioned again the need to get his team mentally ready for Friday night's game. Last week against Long Beach, Brown felt the players were physically up to par, but not mentally.

"We were inconsistent. We didn't execute the way we should have. Three times we were down to their 10-yard line, and we didn't score.

"I have to give the Long Beach defense credit. I don't think the kids believed it when we warned them."

Brown also added that even though he was disappointed in the Pirates' offensive game last week, he felt the players tried to do their best. "The kids certainly were not lacking in effort," he said.

The coach noted the Pirates' defense played a good game. "They did a good job. All of the guys did fine."

Player of the Week awards for offense went to running back Charles Lizana and quarterback Tracey Watts. Defense awards were given to linebackers Brian Plunkett and Ray Alexander. The special teams award went to Burnell Dedeaux.

Brown also mentioned the outstanding effort of safety Ryan "Boo" Jenkins.

Tight end Jimmy Crawford still suffers from a shoulder injury and is questionable for Friday's game. Jerome Malley has a thigh injury, but Brown expects that he will be ready. Eldon Daniels, who had suffered a fractured foot, is back in shape and will be kicking field goals for the Pirates.

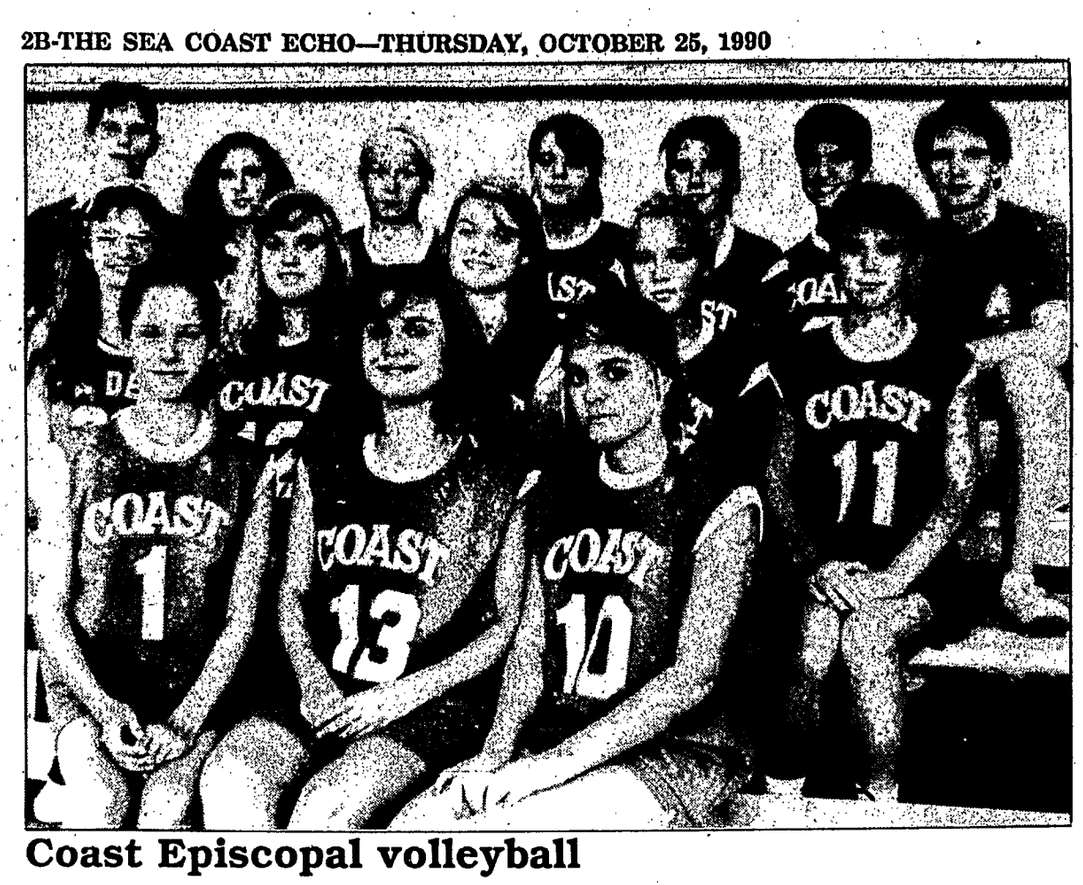

Homecoming activities will begin before the game. Brown said he hopes to see a good turnout.

Bay High Players of the Week

The Bay High Athletic Club has named Players of the Week for outstanding achievement on offense and defense during Friday night's game against St. Martin. Number 10 Trellis Haynes, left, was chosen Defensive Player of the Week. The sophomore quarterback/defensive back is credited with four individual tackles, four assists on tackles and three initial hits. "It was his first game to start since early in the season and he played very well all night," said Coach Rocky Gaudin. Number 78 Billy Cuevas was named Offensive Player of the Week. The senior offensive/defensive tackle has been "our most consistent blocker all year" according to Gaudin. "He was excellent in both run and pass blocking, doing a good job opening holes for Jason Loiacano to run through and protecting QB Charlie Mitchell," he said. Chris Tatum is coach, and Joe Dean is assistant coach.

"The girls have come a long way after starting the season with little or no experience and only one week of practice," said Tatum.

"We have seen tremendous improvement as the girls develop their skills and gain experience. They should do well in their upcoming games," Tatum said.

Three games remain on the schedule: Thursday, Oct. 25 is an away game at Riverside Academy in New Orleans at 7 p.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 30, against Marrero Academy at 6:30; and Thursday, Nov. 1, against Reserve at 5 p.m.

The last two games will be played at home in the CEHS gym on Espy Avenue in Pass Christian.

together over the past years at Hancock (Bay High's head coach, Rocky Gaudin was an assistant coach at Hancock for several years).

"Our boys are working hard and are looking to bounce back and come home with a victory. We're going to have to really put some pressure on quarterback Charlie Mitchell as he is the main man behind the Tiger offense," said Favre.

"I don't think because Rocky and Joe are coaching this team, it will have an affect on the game. Our boys are ready to play ball, no grudges involved," he said.

"Their team will be ready, and that makes for a good game, said Favre.

Playoffs important, but PRC is first

Special to the Echo
BY TOM ACKERMAN

One might suspect the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws would be resting on their laurels this week, reveling in the win over d'Iberville, 13-6, that put them in the state football playoffs for the first time.

Not so, says Rock head coach Ken Lyons. "We're pleased, of course, but we're not satisfied," he noted.

"We're very happy with the outcome of Friday's game against d'Iberville, but we've still got two tough teams waiting for us (Pearl River Central and St. Paul of Covington, La.) to prep us for the playoffs."

At press time, the outcome of the District 7 battle to determine whom SSC will play was still undecided. The contenders are South Pike of Magnolia, McComb and South Lauderdale.

According to Lyons, having to play two tough games before the playoffs might be a blessing in disguise.

"I think that might give us a little time to get over the honeymoon of it and settle down a bit, and perhaps we'll play a better game when the time comes."

"At this point," he continued, "we're not doing anything special to get ready for the playoffs, we're just taking it one step at a time. This week it's Pearl River Central."

Although the Rocks have demonstrated one of the toughest defenses in the district, putting points on the board continues to be a problem.

"This week against Pearl River," Lyons said, "we're going to be trying to find ways to improve the consistency of our offense. We're going to try some formation 'wrinkles' we haven't used yet."

But, he added quickly, "we're not trying to trick anybody, we're just trying to improve our performance."

Keeping focused on the upcoming two games shouldn't be a problem for the Rocks since this is the first time since Lyons took over the helm four years ago that they've got a shot at an 8-2 season.

"We're striving for a lot of new goals," he pointed out. "So long as we keep reminding ourselves of what we're here for, what we want to accomplish, I don't think we'll have a motivational problem."

But there is one area that might pose a problem, Lyons added. "One of the things we have to guard against is unnecessary injuries in practice. We can't bang ourselves up and have an unhealthy team on the field and expect to win."

"But that doesn't mean we're going to ease off," he continues. "We're going all out, and we're not going to try to hide anything. We want to win."

The Rock-A-Chaws entertain Pearl River Central tomorrow night at the SSC stadium at 7:30.

The final game of the regular season is against St. Paul in Covington, La., so far undefeated.

"That game," Lyons said, looking ahead, "is going to be a real tough measure of what we're made of."

Sidekicks shut out Slidell in Under-12 soccer play

This past weekend, the Bay Area Youth Soccer Coke Sidekicks Under-12 Select team defeated and shut out the best of Slidell's Under-12 Select teams.

In the first game, the Sidekicks defeated the Slidell Imperial Guard A team by a score of 1-0 in a highly defensive, fast-paced game.

In the second game, the Slidell Warrior B team was defeated by a score of 5-0.

Goals were scored by Brett Weidman, Kyle Foster, Michael Flowers and Christopher Flowers.

Assists in scoring were provided by David Flowers, Justin Wadsworth, Michael Mancuso, Scott Courrege and Kyle Kidd.

The superior defense was controlled by goalkeeper Justin Wadsworth along with Jimmy Saucier, Jason Chiniche, Ty McMichael and Brantley Ladner.

The defense successfully prevented any penetrated attack on the BAYS goal area. Both games were well played and speak highly of the talent of the players from the BAYS area.

Coast will host Golden Games

Hundreds of Mississippians, 50 years of age and older, will engage in athletic competition during the Golden Games, Mississippi's Senior Olympics, Oct. 25-27 in Biloxi and Gulfport.

This will be the first year the Golden Games will be held on the Gulf Coast after five years at the University of Mississippi in Oxford.

"The games stress physical fitness and activity and offer participants an opportunity to enjoy athletic competition, make new friends and renew friendships made during previous competitions," said Billie Marshall, director of the Mississippi Department of Human Services' Council on Aging. "We are looking forward to holding the competition on the beautiful Gulf Coast."

The Golden Games offer competition for men and women by age groups in a wide variety of sporting and recreational events. The 50-55 age group has been added this year, providing an opportunity for many additional Mississippians to participate.

Medal winners in swimming, tennis, bowling, horseshoes, archery, golf, cycling, track and field, table tennis, volleyball, softball throwing and the 10-kilometer run will quality for the 1991 U. S. National Senior Olympics to be held in Syracuse, N.Y.

The Council on Aging is a sponsor of the Golden Games, along with Hancock Bank, the American Association of Retired Persons, the National Association of Retired Federal Employees and the Retired Senior Volunteers Program.

Competition will be at Gulfport High School, Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi and the Biloxi Natatorium. The games will begin with opening ceremonies and a seafood dinner at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25 at Biloxi's Point Cadet.

Persons wishing to participate may register between 2 and 5:30 p.m. Oct. 25 at the Holiday Inn-Coliseum in Biloxi. There will be a $10 registration fee. The seafood dinner will be an additional $2, and Golden Games T-shirts will be available for $10.

Eagles travel to Virginia Tech

The University of Southern Mississippi travels to Virginia Tech to play the first of three remaining games on the road, after finishing the home schedule last weekend against Memphis State.

USM, 5-● before playing its homecoming contest against the Tigers, had won three straight games. This was the most victories in a row for a Golden Eagle team since the 1988 squad which won seven straight and finished 10-2 with an Independence Bowl victory in Curley Hallman's first season.

Speaking of Hallman, he picked up his 20th victory at USM against Tulane three weeks ago in just 30 games, the quickest a coach at USM has reached that mark.

As for Virginia Tech, they were 3-3 before playing Temple last weekend in Philadelphia, Pa. The Hokies are led by Frank Beamer, who is in his fourth year, and has compiled a 14-24-1 mark in his tenure at VT.

The Golden Eagles and Hokies last met in 1988 with USM winning 35-13.

After trailing 13-7 to the Hokies early in a hard rainstorm in Hattiesburg, the Eagles scored four straight touchdowns which included a Simmie Carter 60-yard blocked punt return and a James Henry 44-yard punt return.

USM leads 3-2 in the series that began in 1958. The Eagles last played in Blacksburg in 1976, losing 16-7 and are 1-2 lifetime in that city.

A win against either Memphis State or Virginia Tech would assure the Golden Eagles a winning season, their ninth in the last 11 seasons. The Eagles suffered just two losing marks in the 80's, a 5-6 record a year ago and 4-7 in 1984.

After Virginia Tech, the Eagles play at Southwestern Louisiana (Nov. 3) a finish the season at Auburn (Nov. 10).

EARTHQUAKE PROTECTION

Earthquakes are a peril that the coast has never been concerned with--up until now. It now seems with all the scientific data available that our area may well be affected by a fault line to our north. Most insurance companies will provide earthquake coverage by an endorsement to an existing Homeowner or Dwelling Fire policy as well as on Commercial buildings. You should call your agent for further information on this valuable coverage.

Our agents would be most happy to discuss this coverage along with your home and commercial insurance needs. Just give us a call at the number listed below, or visit our office at 114 Main St., Bay St. Louis.

Can Arthritis Really Be Cured?

It's a simple question, one we're asked all the time. The answer is yes. And no.

The first thing we need to find out is what kind of arthritis you have. As in all fields of medicine, making the right diagnosis comes before prescribing the right treatment.

As rheumatologists, we're M.D.s trained and Board Certified in Internal Medicine and, in Dr. Marielisa Sedrish's case, in Pediatrics as well. After completing the exhaustive training required to become a 'primary care physician' (e.g. Internist, Pediatrician, Family Practictioner), a physician must dedicate at least two more years studying arthritis and immune diseases to become a rheumatologist.

That time is spent recognizing and treating the dozens of different types of arthritis. And by narrowing the field of study to one area, it becomes possible to keep up with all the research into new treatments of these crippling diseases.

Working with your primary care doctor, we may be able to get your arthritis under control and prevent it from doing further damage. And if yours is one of the curable forms of arthritis, such as Lyme Disease, then of course the news is even better.

Barq's Bike Hike in Pass to benefit Multiple Sclerosis

The first Barq's Root Beer Bike Hike to be held on the Gulf Coast scheduled Saturday, Oct. 27 in Pass Christian, will benefit the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Mississippi Chapter.

Cyclists will gather at the War Memorial Park on East Scenic Drive and will start either the 35- or 65-mile trek at 7:30 a.m.

Sonny Barq IV states, "This is the first Barq's Bike Hike we have sponsored on the Gulf Coast, and we are expecting more than 100 cyclists. The monies raised will help to find the cause and a cure for Multiple Sclerosis (MS)—a debilitating disease of the central nervous system—as well as provide services for victims of MS and their families in Mississippi."

"Last year we held our first Barq's Bike Hike in Jackson and had a wonderful turnout. We are looking for a great participation on the Coast on Oct. 27. Cyclists of all abilities are urged to register today.

"Pick up a registration form from local stores where Barq's products are sold or at bicycle or sports stores on the Coast. You may call the MS office at 1-922-7979 to register over the phone," he said.

"You ride at your own pace, knowing that sag wagons, rest stops, mechanics, medical, communications and safety personnel are always available," said director Barbara Sanders. The City of Pass Christian, Harrison County Sheriff's Department, Mississippi Department of Public Safety, Garden Park Community Hospital, K99FM, Gulf Coast Coca-Cola, Barq's Root Beer and more than 75 volunteers are working endlessly to make this a safe and fun ride for all participants," she said.

There is no registration fee for Barq's Bike Hike. However, each cyclist must obtain $50 in pledges, due on or before the Barq's Bike Hike, Oct. 27.

To expedite, call 1-922-7979 to register over the phone and receive your complete packet of information. The more pledges you get, the more prizes you will be eligible to receive from Barq's Bike Hike, such as Commemorative T-shirts, caps, water bottles, jackets, watches, sports bags and up to $475 in gift certificates. Gift certificates may be redeemed from the Cicycle Centre in Biloxi or Indian Cycle Fitness and Outdoor in Jackson.

The participant who turns in the most money on Oct. 27, will receive a Barq's Mountain Bike, and each team raising a minimum of $1,000 will receive a 48-quart Barq's Cooler filled with Barq's Root Beer as well as receiving individual prizes.

Pass Christian City Police will escort riders through the first mile or two of the tour and the Harrison Sheriff's Department and Mississippi Highway Patrol will be on the alert to see county and state roads are safe for cyclists.

All cyclists will travel from War Memorial Park to Menge Avenue, then left on Menge, right on Red Creek Road and left on County Farm Road.

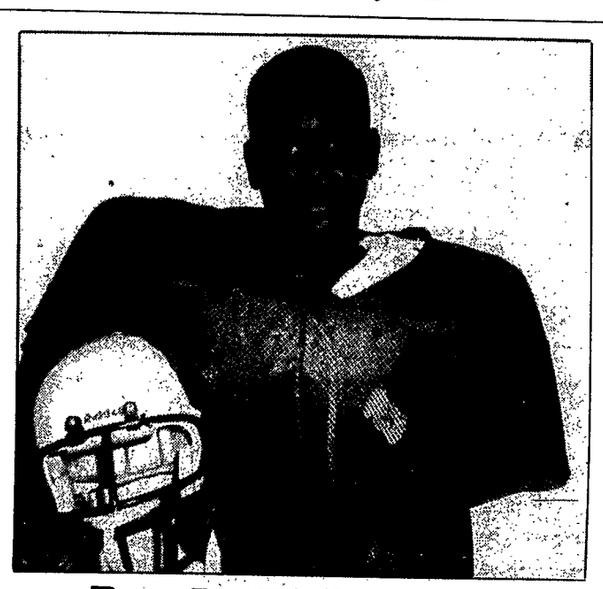

At Wolf River Road, the 35-mile route goes to the left. Those choosing to ride 65 miles will turn right on Landon Road, trek to Old Highway 49, travel north to Yankee Town Road, where a left turn will take the whole and hearty to Frank Ladner Road, left on Saucier-Lizana Road to Hwy. 53, right on 53 to Cemetery Road, left on Cable Bridge Road, right on Big Creek Road.

As you enter Wolf River Road, you will join the route of the 35-milers as they travel to Cable Bridge Road, then left on Vidalia Road to DeLisle where Wittman Road takes cyclists across the beautiful Wolf River back to downtown Pass Christian's Second and Market streets and Scenic Drive back to the War Memorial Park.

An all-you-can eat cookout, provided by Barq's, will be awaiting as cyclists return.

Bay Jr. High MVP

Seventh grade quarterback/defensive back Wali Shabazz was named Most Valuable Player in the Bay Junior High 12-8 victory against St. John. He connected with Xavier Lewis on a 48-yard touchdown pass on the last play of the first half, which proved to be the deciding factor in the game. He also did a great job on defense, according to coach Rocky Gaudin. The MVP award is given by the Bay High Athletic Club and is sponsored by LaVilla's Hot Tamales.

OBSESSIVE LOVE

"Mother Love," a powerfully compelling drama about a woman's obsessive love for her son and venomous hatred for her former husband, opens the 11th season of "Mystery!" Sunday, Oct. 28 at 8 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Diana Rigg, who is also the host of "Mystery!" stars as Helena Vesey, the ex-wife of world-famous symphony conductor Alex Vesey, played by David McCallum. Embittered after their marriage fails, she denies Vesey any contact with their son, Kit, a promising young barrister.

Nevertheless, Alex and Kit, all but soffocated by his mother's "love," secretly build up a strong relationship.

Their web of deceit and lies, necessary to maintain their contact in the face of Helena's opposition, threatens the father's happy marriage to a second wife, Ruth, and Kit's marriage to Angela. When Helena discovers the subterfuge and realizes she's been deceived for years, she plans her revenge.

Preparing the young for a fire emergency

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia and his men spent Thursday, October 11 at the Waveland Elementary School instructing the children on emergency measures.

Garcia explained that the smaller children are taught through familiar stories, such as Hansel and Gretel, where the witch must be taught of fire safety.

The first and second graders, said Garcia learn the "stop, drop and roll" procedure in the event their clothing should catch fire.

The children watched a film of Donald Duck and his nephews practice a basic exit drill whereby they crawl (to escape the smoke and heat) along the floor to a door, feel for heat before opening, and if too hot, crawl to an alternate exit route.

"We have (popular cartoon family) the Simpsons for the older ones," added Garcia.

A firefighter dressed in suit, oxygen mask and gear walked around allowing the children to familarize themselves with the appearance.

Garcia said it is very important the children recognize the outfitted firefighter as someone to help them, and not be afraid.

Each child was given a packet with a tot finder sticker. The children are encouraged to place the sticker at the bottom of the door or window to their room to provide a marker to help a firefighter when having to locate a child within a burning home.

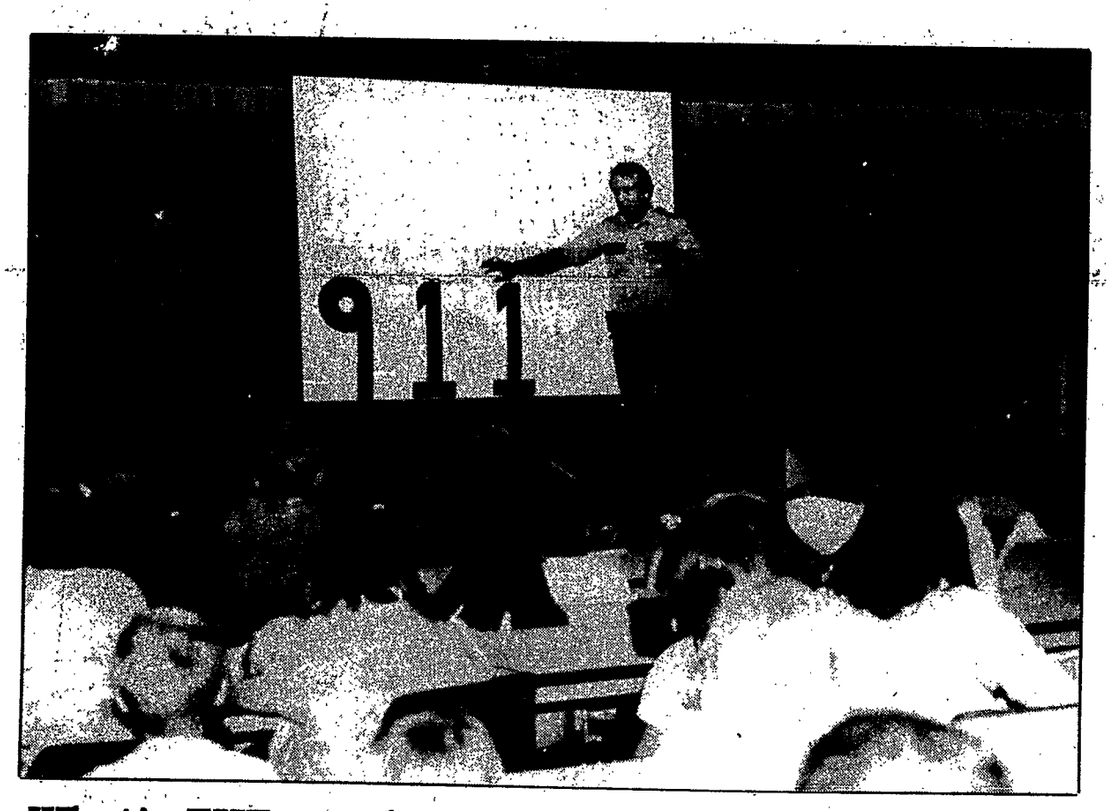

Garcia reported more than 460 students at Waveland Elementary were taken through the film presentation, demonstration and, the most popular, an engine ride.

"You can not put a value on a life," said Garcia, "if we taught one child something, if we save one life by today's work, we have accomplished our goal."

Visitor from Holland samples life on Mississippi Gulf Coast

BY TRACI BONNEY

She doesn't like the fake plants.

Angelique Baas of Delfzijl, Holland, is the 17-year-old visitor of Marla and Gary Elmer of Bay St. Louis. Angelique arrived here October 2, she said, "at 3:30 in the morning, without luggage" from Hope, Ark., where she had visited with Marla's brother's family after coming to the United States August 29.

Talking about the differences between her native land and the U.S., Angelique said she doesn't like the large number of silk-and-plastic plants in American homes, offices and restaurants.

Marla explained, "In Holland they're big on plants. They begin teaching horticulture when the children are very young."

Angelique did say she likes the people she has met so far. She has visited Bay High School with Marla's daughter, Marmi, and has met several people her age.

Even though she enjoys getting to know American teens, the observant 17-year-old still notices a big difference between the youth of her country and those of the U.S. — concern over appearance.

"They (American teens) spend a lot of time in front of the mirror," she said with a smile. "I couldn't do that."

On the other hand, she said later in the conversation that she was going to let her short hair grow out some if she stays in the U.S. "The girls here — and the boys, too — wear their hair long. If you did that in Holland, they would think you're old-fashioned."

Marla Elmer and Angelique Baas

Angelique is expected to leave for Holland at the end of November, but she wants to stay longer. She would like to become involved in law enforcement, but cannot do so at this time in her country because of laws regarding age and possession of a driver's license.

However, Officer Don Ocso of the Bay St. Louis Police Department is checking into the possibility of waiving the age requirement for candidates for the reserve training school so that Angelique can enter it when the next session begins in January.

"I hope he can do it," Angelique said. "I really want to go to the school."

If Ocso does manage it, though, there may be another snag. Angelique is in the U.S. under the newly established Visa Waiver program. Under that program, people may visit the United States for up to 90 days without a visa. At the end of that time, they must leave. They cannot attempt to change their status or obtain a visa.

Marla's father, who is in Holland and obtained the paperwork to send Angelique to the U.S., is working to solve the problem, Marla said. He may be able to take care of the situation without Angelique's returning to Holland. Angelique and her host family are hoping this will be the case.

Meanwhile, Angelique is enjoying her time here. She has joined the local Explorers post and attends school functions with Marmi. She's learning the "slanguage" of area teenagers, and is adjusting — although reluctantly — to the idea of using a car to travel around the area, instead of a bicycle, as is customary in her country.

But she still doesn't like the fake plants.

French exchange student takes home memories of Bay

Editors Note: Benoit Fayet is an 18-year-old native of Carentan, France, who visited for three weeks in the United States.

Special to the Echo
BY BENOIT FAYET

It's now the end of my trip. I have been in the States for three weeks. I have to leave because I have to prepare for the beginning of school. I'll go to the University of Caen on Oct. 22.

Over there, I'll continue to study English in order to become an English teacher. Moreover, as my future teachers at the university will speak English, it will be easier for me to understand them, thanks to the trip to the States.

During my stay in Bay St. Louis, I went to Bay High School. I had French, English, public speaking, art and American history lessons.

This gave me the chance to be with American teenagers all day, so that I could listen to them speaking, which made me think in English and not in French.

At school in France, the English teachers speak slowly, and we have the time to translate what they say. I had to write paragraphs in English and public speaking. I learned technical words in art lessons, and I got some ideas about the history of the United States in the 1850's.

Although the atmosphere is very relaxed, students have to work a lot, and for example, they're asked to speak in front of their friends in public speaking. I also visited classes at St. Stanislaus and Coast Episcopal School.

Students are expected to be unruffled in their attitude, but at the same time, to express themselves politely. They watch a lot of educational films (not in France).

From time to time, I stayed in French class to answer students' questions about France and Europe (for example: the clothes we wear, our school system).

One the one hand, I guess they've learned a lot about my country, but on the other hand, I feel that I have learned more about their country because of my being here.

I stayed with a family whose members don't speak French. That was very interesting, because I had to speak English all the time and had to find synonyms or different ways to explain a word I didn't know.

They took me to places like New Orleans and its famous French Quarter, the Gulf Coast, and Fort Walton Beach.

The French Quarter doesn't look like modern France today, except in very little towns. It looks like France did 90 years ago. I visited some of their friends who speak with a different accent, and I had to become accustomed to hearing them. Sometimes it was difficult.

With Mrs. Kathy Edwards, the students invited me to participate in every activity (for example: the making of the homecoming float, taking part in the sports and dress-up events, and going to the game and dance during homecoming week at Hay High).

The three articles I have written for The Sea Coast Echo gave me a chance to practice my English in writing. Writing and speaking are very different from each other.

My trip to the States has been fantastic. I had to get used to Americans' habits. Being here made me change my accent a little bit and made me think faster in English.

I'll leave with more than 300 slides I took in the South. They're already developed because they're two times cheaper than in France, and as soon as I arrive in France, I would like to show them to my friends so that they can discover the marvelous south of the United States.

Anyway, most of your products are less expensive. For example, we pay 80 Francs (about $8) to buy a blank video cassette, and you pay $4 or $5; we pay 400 francs for a pair of Levis Jeans (about $80) and you pay about $40. You have many more stores than we have. In Carentan, where I live, we have six big stores for 10,000 inhabitants.

Anyway, I'll never forget this trip, and I'll have wonderful pictures in my mind for a long time.

St. Paul Puppeteers give serious lesson

A taste of our own medicine

Bay-Catholic Elementary children watch as puppet beach goers dump litter along road only to later have a caterpillar, squirrel and fish bring the litter back and dump it on the beach goers. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The St. Paul Hallelujah Puppeteers, in conjunction with the Bay St. Louis Project Pride program, entertained Bay-Catholic Elementary children Tuesday, Oct. 16 with an anti-litter skit.

Clown, Jim Williams, reinforced the lesson with questions directed at instilling early environmental concerns.

Rene and Helen Clare, Jim and Hilda Williams and C.D. Taylor of Pass Christian, along with Kathleen Kemp of Bay St. Louis, volunteered their time with the puppeteer troup.

Following the entertainment, a presentation was given by Bay St. Louis clerk of council, Mike Cuevas, on Project Pride and by Desire Kelly of Gulf Coast Recycling.

The puppeteers gave their first anti-litter presentation Monday, Oct. 15 at North Bay Elementary at the request of principal Kim Stasney.

The puppeteers will be at Coast Episcopal School in Nov.

Lagasse elected at PRC

Mickey Lagasse of Bay St. Louis and Cindy Bullock of Columbia have been selected freshman and sophomore class presidents, respectively, at Pearl River Community College.

According to Seth Williams, president of the Student Government Association, campus elections were completed in early October.

Joining Lagasse as freshman officers are Mark Smith of Purvis, vice president; and Missy Hughes of Lafayette and Heidi Johnson of Poplarville as class representatives.

Bullock's sophomore class officers include Christa Bounds of Picayune as vice president and Christy Broom of Columbia and Regi Williamson of Purvis as representatives.

Williams said his organization was promoting several projects on campus including a year-round recycling program that he hopes will work in conjunction with the Adopt-A-Highway program.

"Cleaning up a two-mile stretch of the highway and then recycling the garbage is a good demonstration of what can be done to help beautify and protect our environment," said Williams.

The SGA president said he was also supporting the formation of a Student Alumni Association and that he was in favor of sponsoring a campus Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week.

PRC court

St. Clare awarded 'accredited clear'

St. Clare principal, Sister Jane Birrcher, received a letter from John Curlee, chairman of the Commission on School Accreditation, State Department of Education, stating that St. Clare School in Waveland was awarded 'Accredited-Clear' status for the 1990-91 school year.

According to policy, the 1990-91 status will hold until the October 1991 meeting of the commission.

This accreditation follows on on-site visit of the school during 1989-90.

Keesler auction set

An auction will be conducted at the Defense Reutilization and Marketing Office in Building 4422 Nov. 13 starting at 9 a.m.

All property being sold can be preinspected starting Nov. 7 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. on weekdays prior to the auction.

FISHERMAN'S WHARF™

FRESH · SEAFOOD

FEDERALLY INSPECTED SEAFOOD

Fisherman's Wharf Seafood is Federally Inspected (or alive and swimming)

AVAILABLE AT STORES WITH A FISHERMAN'S WHARF FRESH-SEAFOOD DEPARTMENT

WE GO OVERBOARD WITH OUR SEAFOOD INSPECTION.

We thought you might want to know why Winn-Dixie seafood is always so good. First we start with the best, then, it goes through three separate inspections, one by the U.S. Department of Commerce, one at the Winn-Dixie Distribution Center and one at your local Winn-Dixie store. All three inspections employ stringent guidelines which are models for the industry. And what does that mean to you? It means that when you make a purchase in the Fisherman's Wharf, you know you're buying fresh, quality seafood for your family. Check it out. Once you try it, you'll be hooked.
